Preparing to Sail for Europe
on Feb. 23 on Account of His Health.

New York, Jan. 19.—Paul Morton resident of the Equitable Life Asapoplexy tonight.

Mr. Morton was fifty-three years age and a son of the late J. Sterosevelt in 1904, leaving the vice-

In 1905 he became head of the Equi-sider himself a sick man, but his family had persuaded him to take a vacation and he had planned to sail for Europe on February 23.

Mr. Morton had called to keep an appointment at the Hotel Seymour, when he was suddenly stricken and died an hour later without regaining consciousness.

Rev. William Heth Whitsitt, D. D.,

In this position he wrote a paper on baptism by immersion which gave rise to a controversy that resulted in Dr. Whitsitt resigning the presidency of the seminary. He then became a professor in Richmond College, a Baptist institution of this city, a position he held until last spring.

In Dealing With The Honduras Rebels.

can cruiser Tacoma seized the armed vessel, Hornet, General Bonilla's
chief asset, cast the rebel crew ashore, manned her with American sailors and ordered her out of the harbor of Truxillo, Honduras. The Hornet's recent movements up and down the coast were taken in the der orders from the Government to

SHANKLIN TO RESIGN.

Conflict of City And State Health Departments Still Causing Confusion.

The City Council met in regular session at 7:30 o'clock Friday night with all of the members present.

City Clerk Tibbs presented a formal report of the sale of a telephone franchise, pursuant to advertisement at 10 o'clock a. m., Jan. 19th. It was bought by the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co. for $100.

An ordinance was then passed granting the franchise in accordance with the terms of ordinance No. 30, passed some time ago. The ordinance received all of the votes.

The Building Committee presented the application of Sam Frankel for a permit for the erection of a one story building on West Ninth St., in the rear of the First National Bank, to be used for a steam laundry and dry cleaner. After considerable discussion the permit was authorized upon the condition that insurance rates were not affected by it, the matter to be investigated.

The finance committee reported that the books of Auditor and Treasurer H. L. McPherson had been examined and found correct for 1910
and he was given a quietus.

The resignation of Delinquent Tax Collector W. E. Shanklin was reported by the Mayor and the vacancy
will be filled at the next meeting.

City Attorney Brasher reported that he had written to Dr. J. N.
McCormack concerning the confusion caused by the appointment of a state officer to perform the duties of the City Health Officer in regard to birth and death reports,
but that his letter had not been replied to.

AIR EXPLORERS.

Missourian Introduces Bill
To Limit Ascensions.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 21.— Representative Warner, of St. Louis, introduced a bill in the House to regulate aeroplane flights. It prohibits ascensions to a greater height than 1,000 feet, and requires availors to give a bond of $10,000 as a guarantee they will not violate the law. The penalty is a prison sentence of five years. The violator of the law, is said to be "guilty of attempted suicide."

Representative Warner was a friend of Arch Hoxsey and Ralph Johnstone, and he said their deaths influenced him to introduce the bill.

USED A "POP"

One Negro Shoots Another
Near Church Hill

Will Wallace walked into a room
where another negro named Tom McGowan was seated, near Church Hill, Sunday afternoon and, it is said, shot him with a pistol, making a wound not considered dangerous.
Wallace then made his escape and had not been apprehended yesterday.

Two Latest Inventions.

San Francisco, Jan. 23.—The practicability of more or less direct wireless communication between aeroplanes and earth stations, was successfully demonstrated here when Lieutenant Brock of the signal service, sent a half dozen messages
from an aeroplane to field stations.
The airship was two and one-half miles from the field.

ANOTHER ARREST.

Chum of Young Thompson
Must Now Stand Trial.

Dixon, Ky., Jan. 23.—Karney Benjamin, aged 20 years, of Providence,
Ky., was arrested here Friday night,
and charged with the murder of Henry T. Thompson, the prominent merchant of Providence, who was found slain in a lonely woods patch on December 26. Benjamin was here calling on Miss Rascoe, sister-in-law of Dr. Goodson. He was with her at Dr. Goodson's home when Sheriff Vaughn placed him under arrest. He was taken to a hotel and placed under guard of Jack Price and Guy Kulls. He protested being taken into custody, saying that such action was an injustice, and that he was innocent of the charge.

The arrest of Benjamin, following so close to the acquittal of Thomas Thompson, caused a sensation here and in Providence. The accused young man is a son of J. B. Benjamin, a hardware dealer, and one of the best known men in this county.

FAIRVIEW LETTER

Tea Rose, Correspondent

Mr. Cooper Miller is very much improved from a serious spell of bronchial-pneumonia.

Mrs. Venable Carter has been quite low with measles, near Laytonsville, but is much better.

R. E. Quisenberry, of Smith's Grove, spent several days this week with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Barksdale.

There is a great deal of illness of various kinds in this section, so much that we haven't room to mention all of them.

There is quite an epidemic of measles in this section of the county, some of the victims being quite sick, though not serious.

A tenant house on the farm of Wm. Wilson, near Bell's Chapel, was burned Friday night, with $2,000 loss, and $1,000 insurance.

A great deal of tobacco has passed through here this week going to Hopkinsville, the weather being ideal for stripping and hauling.

Tom Boyd, aged about 35 years, died Thursday morning, some five miles east of here, on the Fagg place, of dropsy. He was unmarried.

Mr. "Bud" Griffin is contemplating moving to Allensville about the first of March, where he expects to open up a meat market.

Mr. L. Norman has moved to Britmart from Allegee, where he will succeed R. E. Gilliam in the mercantile business about March 1.

Prof. Robinson's Commercial school will open here Monday in the Masonic Hall, with a fair attendance, and he hopes to have more later on.

Mr. Ezekiel Marshall, who lived near Antioch, died last Sunday of pneumonia, and was buried at Ebenezer. He was a regular visitor to the reunions here every year.

Ed Harned, of Honey Grove, took two loads of tobacco to Hopkinsville this week, which brought $680.40, there being a little over three thousand pounds, or in other words $10.50 per hundred.

The furnace in the school building is being put in this week by an expert from the company, and further work will begin at once, so that the building can be occupied. They had hoped to get into it by the first of the year.

A shooting scrape took place near Tabernacle last Friday, in which Gano Gibson was shot in the side with a pistol bullet, and Lee Carter was shot with a shot gun, all the damage it doing was to his hat, which was torn off his head, the load of shot tearing a hole in a door of the residence of Telford Latham. Nothing has been done about the matter, in the way of warrants being sworn out.

Dyspepsia is our national ailment. Burdock Blood Bitters is the national cure for it. It strengthens stomach membranes promotes flow of digestive juices, purifies the blood, builds you up.

Case Dismissed.

Providence, Ky., Jan. 21.—Thomas Thompson, the youth who was arrested charged with the murder of his father Henry Thompson, Christmas, was dismissed on his examining trial. It developed that Thompson was killed with an automatic shotgun, which is different from the one young Thompson is supposed to have had. The youth also established a convincing alibi and the case is as much a mystery as ever. Thompson was on the stand two hours. He told a straight story of his conduct on the day his father was killed, and was not shaken.

McCLURE'S TEN STRIKE.

Series of Great Detective Stories By Wm. J. Burns.

HERE'S A WAY TO SAVE DOCTORS BILLS.

Physicians Give Free Advice
By Which Parents
May Profit.

It was an association of gentlemen professionally physicians and chemists, all of whom were born in the drug trade, so to speak, and who have been connected with it all their lives, who first gave to the world Castoria, which as everyone knows is a pleasant and effective remedy for the ailments of infants and children. It has always been recognized as a meritorious preparation, and its reward has been the greatest popularity ever enjoyed by any remedy ever put upon the market; attained, not by flamboyant advertising or appeals to ignorance or vulgar prejudice, but by inherent merit. All physicians recommend it, and many, very many, prescribe it.

Many parents call in the family physician. Many other parents take advantage of what the physician told them when he was first called in consultation. All good family physicians say: "Give the children Castoria." Healthy parents know this remedy of old, for they

The leading feature in the February McClure's is the first installment of the series of true detective stories, "Great Cases of Detective Burns," recorded by Dana Gatlin. Burns is unquestionably the most famous detective in the United States, and these stories of his most interesting cases are told in his own words. The first of these, "How Abe Ruef Confessed," is a story of the famous San Francisco graft prosecutions, "The Case of the Reporter," by Hugo Munsterberg, deals with the methods of the newspaper reporters. Professor Munsterberg as a noted psychologist is considered good "copy," and his account to the sensational distortions took it themselves as children. It was more than thirty years ago that Castoria made a place for itself in the household. It bore the signature of Charles H. Fletcher then as it does today. The signature is its guarantee, which is accepted in thousands of homes where there are children.

Much is printed nowadays about big families. Dr. William J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., is the father of one of these much-read-about families. Here is what he says:

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Charles H. Fletcher has received hundreds of letters from prominent physicians who have the same esteem for Castoria that Dr. McCrann has. Not only do these physicians say they use Castoria in their own families, but they prescribe it for their patients. First of all it is a vegetable preparation which assimilates the food and regulates the stomach and bowels. After eating comes sleeping, and Castoria looks out for that too. It allays feverishness and prevents loss of sleep, and this absolutely without the use of opium, morphine or other baneful narcotic. Medical Journals are reluctant to discuss proprietary medicines. Hall's Journal of Health, however, says: "Our duty is to expose danger and record the means for advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health by regulating the system, not by stupefying it, and our readers are entitled to the information."

GAVE PEOPLE HONEST DEAL

Election Judge Took Precautions to Prevent Customary Stuffing of Ballot Box.

It would be unfair to tell the name of the author of this story; but it is too good to pass up.

In Tennessee not many years ago
it was a sport and a science in some sections to stuff the ballot boxes so that, no matter how the people voted,
the machine candidates won. In one little town an enthusiast for honest government was named as one of the board of three election judges. His two companions were ready to slip into the ballot box enough votes to elect their man; but they could not get the honest judge to leave the voting booth long enough for them to turn the trick. Finally, after he had refused to leave long enough for lunch, all three went to a neighboring hotel for a hasty meal.

The honest judge, who was also very devout, put the ballot box on the floor between his feet and, shutting his eyes, bowed his head for several minutes while he asked the blessing on the meal.

While he was doing this the other two stuffed the box, and the machine candidates had a staggering majority. And to this day the honest judge advertises the fact that for once he made the election judges
give the people of his town an honest deal.

UNKNOWN LABRADOR.

Labrador is an unknown region to most people, but a glance at the map
will show that it is a vast peninsula,
with a total area of 500,000 square miles, lying north of Belle Isle strait and embraced in the north temperate zone, the southern section lying along the same parallels as the great wheat growing areas of western Canada. Newfoundland owns and administers the eastern section of Labrador, fronting on the Atlantic, and expeditions have explored it for some years past, but, naturally only superficially, because its immensity of area is such as to preclude a detailed investigation. The official reports, however, show that the country is splendidly wooded, and that in Hamilton inlet, Sandwich bay, and other districts on the east coast there is splendid timber and some of the greatest water powers in the world, while the region, being open to navigation for seven months of the year, possesses the same advantages for the pulp and paper industry as the mills in those parts of northern Europe which supply European centers today.

IN TWO VOLUMES.

There is an amusing anecdote about King Louis of Bavaria in Lady Dorothy Nevill's reminis-cences: "Resolving to relieve the needs of one of his poor but brave aids-de-camp, he sent him a small portfolio, bound like a book, in which were deposited 500 crowns.
Some time afterward he met the officer and said to him, 'Ah, well, how did you like the new work which I sent you?' 'Excessively, sire,' replied the colonel. 'I read it with such interest that I expect the second volume with impatience.' The king smiled, and when the officer's birthday arrived, he presented him with another portfolio, similar in every respect to the first, but with these words engraved upon it: 'This book is complete in two volumes.'"

COMING EVENTS.

There is the story of the young American heiress just arrived in Paris who was walking through the Rue de la Paix with her father. They stopped before the show window of a big jeweler's shop to look at a tiara surmounted by a coronet.
"Papa, dear," cried the girl, "buy me that!"

"That, my child? I should like to, only, you know, to have the right to wear that jewelry you must be at least a duchess."

The American girl thought a moment, then replied:
"You buy it—I'll find the duke."

REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE.

"I had a most remarkable experience the other day on the road," said
the seasoned traveler.

"It must have been remarkable if you thought it so. What was it?"

"I met two young men on a Chicago limited and they talked to me 20 minutes—fully 20 minutes—before they told me they were from New York!"—Judge.

WHY BE SO WEAK

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away

---Hopkinsville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache,
dizzy spells and urinary disorders, kidney weakness may be the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Can Hopkinsville readers demand further proof than
the following statement:

Mrs. A. T. Lee, two miles from Elkton, Ky., says: "Kidney disease clung to me for some time. My back was racked with pain and I really did not have strength enough to move. The kidney secretions were unnatural and caused me annoyance.
Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills so highly advertised, my husband procured a box for me and I began their use.
The first few doses brought relief and I continued using them until I was in good health."

The oleomargarine dealers tell us that there is more real virtue in their product than in butter.

Yet we have known considerable butter that seemed amply able to resist temptation.

It certainly was strong enough—

AMUSEMENTS

"The Squaw Man."

William Faversham, one of the most deservedly popular dramatic stars, scored his most notable success
a season or two ago when he first presented Edwin Milton Roy's classical western play, "The Squaw Man" at Wallack's Theatre in New York.

It proved to be one of the most genuine theatrical triumphs of the past decade both from a literary and financial viewpoint. The success of New York was repeated in every large city of the United States and then a production was made in London where it was an instantaneous hit,
due possibly to the excellent blending of the English and American atmosphere which pervades the piece.

It is little wonder, then, that the local management announces the presentation of "The Squaw Man"
at Holland's Opera House on Tuesday night, (tonight) Jan. 24, with some feeling of pride at having been able to secure an attraction of this importance.

The production will be replete with beautiful scenery painted by Ernest Albert and the change of locals from English home to the Arizona Desert affords opportunity for a wide range of elaborate costuming which has not been overlooked. There are over thirty characters in the play and all in all, is a production which will warrant the attention of every real lover of the better class of American drama in this city.

DIALECT OF THE AVIATOR

About Time for the Sporting Writer
to Get Busy With New Sport.

We have been awaiting the time when the sporting writers would take up aviation and dignify it with a dialect that is all its own.

For instance, how is this for a mild example?

"The premier sky pilot to negotiate the upshoot was Le Blanc, the pretty boy from gay Patee. Froggie made a good getaway and split the ozone smartly on the first grade, hitting up the pace to a mile per on the side swirl over the bunch of briny
water along the east shore.

"With his chugger tuned up to D sharp the parlyvoe put rings around the high tower and did the swift swallow swoop along the ragged edge of a chunky cloudlet. Then he mosevel earthward, and, jolting old gravitation in the short ribs, gently settled down two hops and a skiplet from the happy little hangar where his birdie makes its nest."

How's this for a starter?

LOYAL

Mr. Seads—If I were to lose my fortune would you still wish to marry my daughter?

Count Nomun—Assuredly! A man of your ability could easily make another fortune.

THE SWEDISH WAY OUT.

A woman who feels the hopelesness of her own position writes that if only the law which obtains in Sweden could be introduced into England and America it would be a simple and adequate solution of this tremendous problem.

In Sweden, if an ill-matched couple have been separated for three years, and still have no desire to come together again, they are free.

Three years is not a long time!
Indeed, some people may not think it long enough for such a couple to discover what they really do desire, but to meet this the period might be extended; make it five, or even ten years before the separation merged into a divorce, and the man or woman who is seriously unhappy and unable to spare the money now necessary to buy divorce will patiently, nay, cheerfully, wait the time allotted if confident that the goal is in sight.—Pall Mall Gazette.

DOES AN ACTOR NEED BRAINS?

When at the Comedy theater I once received an application from a young man who desired to see me on a matter of urgent importance. I wrote him, asking to be informed as to the nature of his business. He replied that it was personal and private, but of extreme urgency, and asked for an interview. I gave him an appointment, and he called to see me, when I learned that his object was to place his services at my disposal. His doctor, he informed me, had ordered him to take a complete rest, or, in any case, to employ himself in some way that required absolutely no brain work! So he had decided to go upon the stage!—Strand Magazine.

WRONG DIRECTION.

Gausler—McFelter always had such a dread of losing his life in a hotel fire that he invented a portable fire escape, which he always carried with him when he made a trip. But I guess he lived long enough to wish that he had turned his attention to the devising of another kind of life preserver.

Weigler—Why?

Gausler—He was drowned at sea.

SATISFACTORY PROOF.

—Where did you live before you came here?

Suspect—In Baltim'r.

Registration Officer (to the others)—He's telling the truth. That's self-evident.

KENTUCKY—Fair Tuesday, rising temperature.

Readers of this paper will be pleased to know that there is at least one dreaded disease which has been able to cure all its stages, that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, by destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for each case that it fails to cure. Send for particulars.

Jordan Hall, a Kentuckian, who lives in New Albany, celebrated his 96th birthday last week. His health is good.

Edmund G. Ross.

Time often brings its vindications. Edmund G. Ross, the Senator from Kansas, who stood out against the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, was most malignantly denounced and vilified for his course. Yesterday a bill was introduced in the Kansas Legislature to appropriate $1,000 for a bronze tablet to Ross' memory.

Ross had the courage to act in accordance with his judgment and conscience against the strongest pressure that prejudice and vindictiveness could bring to bear upon him, and in the face of an overwhelming sentiment in his state.—Nashville Banner.

The Socialist Vote.

The Socialist vote cast in the elections last November aggregated 542,677, a gain of 125,271 over the vote cast in the presidential election in 1908. The most noteworthy gains were in California, from 28,659 to 48,819; in Connecticut, from 5,113 to 10,812; in Illinois, from 34,711 to 49,687; in New York, from 38,451 to 49,529; in Pennsylvania, from 33,913 to 53,053, and in Wisconsin, from 23,164 to 39,547.

Pool Opportunities.

Lexington, Ky., January 20.—Tobacco growers in the burley district of Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, will be offered pool opportunities if the joint plan of the Burley Tobacco Union and the Burley Tobacco Society to entirely eliminate the crop this year pools by a vote of the majority of growers. Leading growers predict the resumption of night riding should the plan of raising no crop be adopted.

In Cannon's County.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 22.—"The 3,500 voters in Vermillion county, the home of 'Uncle Joe' Cannon will probably be disfranchised as the result of the vote buying investigation started here," was the statement of Isaac Woodard, who is probing the charges today.

The vote buyers have flocked to Woodard's home to make confessions and will later be taken before the grand jury.

Money for Teachers

Miss Jennie West, the efficient County Superintendent of Schools, had a busy week last week disbursing something more than $8,000 to the county teachers for their January salaries. This makes the last month but one of the present term. The examinations of County graduates will be held Jan. 27 and 28, this week.

A Georgia Joke.

Blairville, Ga., Jan. 22.—Bartow Brown, the man who was sewed up in the carcass of a mule while in an intoxicated condition by some companions several weeks ago, has gone insane as the result of blood poisoning contracted from the mule carcass. The four men responsible for the practical joke, it is said, have fled the country. Brown is not expected to recover.

Severed By Saw.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 22.—John Gray lost his hand at a sawmill here. He was pushing a piece of timber against the saw. His attention was distracted for a second from his work, and when he looked again at the saw his hand was missing. It came in contact with the saw and was cut off at the wrist before he could remove it.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 20.—A record price for the sale of Burley tobacco during the present auction was made at a local warehouse yesterday when 300 pounds sold at the rate of 40 cts. a pound and the entire crop of upwards of 6,000 pounds for an average of 20½ cents. The tobacco sold constituted the individual crop of Clarence LeBus, President of the Burley Tobacco Society, and the purchaser was the American Tobacco Company.

The Mt. Sterling Gazette is hooting Judge O'Rear as a Republican candidate for Governor. It says he is a receptive candidate, but will not make an active canvass for votes. Are You A Woman?

Baltimore, Md.—Mrs. W. H. Ison, 419 East Madison street, writes, "For several years, I suffered, off and on, from female troubles, until finally I was taken down and could do nothing. The pains I experienced, I shall never forget. I lost weight till I was only skin and bones. I believe I would have been in my grave, if I had not tried Cardui. I shall praise it as long as I live." Many women, like Mrs. Ison, are weak and discouraged, on account of some painful ailment. Are you one of these sufferers? Cardui will help you. Try it today. Any druggist.

In Grave Danger

The bill for the election of U. S. Senator by direct vote is said to be in grave danger of defeat. The opposition is said to have planned to tack on a force bill amendment in the hope that the Democratic Senators will vote against the measure when it comes up for passage.

JEWELRY INDUSTRY GROWS.

The phenomenal growth of the jewelry industry, as well as that of diamond-cutting and setting, is shown in recent figures of the year's importations in these lines. In round figures, during 1910 there were imported into this country diamonds and other precious stones to the value of $48,000,000. Under this general group diamonds formed a very large proportion of the total, a part of them coming in in the natural form, to be cut and set in the United States; another part cut, but not set, the proportion set before being sent to the United States being extremely small and included under the general head "jewelry." The value of uncut diamonds entering the country in 1910 was $10,250,000; of diamonds cut, but not set, $29,500,000; of other precious stones, cut but not set, $7,750,000, and of jewelry and other manufactures of gold and silver $3,250,000. Taking the entire group of diamonds and other precious stones the total for 1910 is $47,750,000, against $42,500,000 in 1907 and $14,500,000 in 1900.

MANGANESE ORE IN AUSTRIA.

Very extensive deposits of high grade manganese ore have been discovered near Huttenberg in Carinthia. The quality is said to be equal to that of the finest Swedish manganese, while the ore lies near the surface and can be very easily worked. Viewed industrially Carinthia is one of the poorest provinces of Austria, so that the new find is expected to have an important bearing upon the manufacturing development of the country.—Innsbruck Letter to the Pall Mall Gazette.

UPLIFT IN PLUNKVILLE.

"How about this barefoot act you've booked for the op'ry house? Some of the leading citizens are a little worried about it."

"We have suppressed all the objectionable features."

"That's just it. We was afeard you would."

HIS THOUGHTS.

"Do you adore me?" she whispered.

"Yes," he answered. "You are my idol thought."

NOT A LOVE STORY.

"Dear Heart!" murmured she. "Only two cents a pound increase," protested the butcher.

An Awakening

BY MARY POWELL

"No, dear, I really do not want you to go. You know I always maintain that women are out of place at political meetings."

I spoke with decision, although I was very sorry to disappoint my dear little Cousin Nell. She was not my own cousin, but I always called her Cousin Nell. But on this point I felt I must be firm. It was a matter about which I had always held strong views and I could not allow Nell to act in opposition to those views without uttering a protest.

Nell was a dear girl and I intended that one day she should be my wife. That was why I felt it to be essential that she should share my opinions. Lately I had had some reason to fear that she sympathized with those misguided women who demand the franchise, and therefore I wished her clearly to understand how much I disapproved of women meddling with politics.

"Fancy bothering this little curly head about the difficulties the government has to face in Ireland, the form the new education bill will take and a dozen other such dry-as-dust topics. I wonder how much you would understand and how I should manage to wake you up at the end of the evening," I said, playfully, as I pulled one of her golden locks.

"I've read quite a lot about all these things. Why, the vicar tells me all about his fears for the future of the village children. Poor little dears! I'm often quite troubled myself as to what may be in store for them. But you'll be a nice boy and take me with you, because I can't very well go alone?"

"Go alone! I should think not, indeed," I exclaimed. "And really I can't take you with me, but I'll tell you what I will do. I'm going to London next Saturday. Suppose you come too, and we'll go to see 'Peter Pan.'"

"Bob, you're a darling," cried Nell, her brown eyes sparkling with delight. "I've been longing to see that for months."

"Very well. That's settled," I said, with a sigh of relief at having succeeded so easily in turning Nell's thoughts into another direction.

"What a charming, tractable little wife I shall have some day!" I reflected as I strolled slowly homeward in the twilight.

The town hall of Bramley was crowded on the night of February 7. Every precaution had been taken to keep out the militant suffragettes, who had lately seriously interrupted several political meetings. Cabinet ministers had been especially victimized, and as a member of the cabinet was to address this particular meeting, the usual number of stewards had been doubled. Any woman who attempted to make a disturbance was to be ejected.

It was a record gathering. Every place was filled, while many people were turned away from the doors. I was seated next to a young fellow whose face I vaguely remembered. I had met him before, though I could not recall where, nor under what circumstances. He was wearing a long Inverness coat, which I expected to see him take off every moment.

Apart from the matter of the coat which he persisted in wearing to his own discomfort and mine, my companion seemed an intelligent lad.

There was a fair sprinkling of ladies among the audience, and he and I agreed that their presence was absurd in the extreme.

"I cannot think what their fathers and husbands are thinking of to allow them to come," I said.

"Perhaps they do not think it necessary to consult their fathers and husbands. Women are getting such strange ideas into their heads of late."

"That is only too true. But you know I cannot help feeling that the men are partially to blame for the present deplorable state of things."

"Do you mean that they do not sufficiently exercise the authority they naturally possess over the weaker sex?"

"That is the cause to some extent, but I think the mistake chiefly lies in their method of treating women. It is foolish to attempt to force a woman into doing something she does not want to do."

"What would you advise, then?" inquired my companion in rather puzzled tones.

"Give her something else—some little pleasure—to think about," I said, smiling as I remembered how successful I had proved this plan to be.

"Isn't that rather like inducing a child to drop a knife by holding out a sugar plum?"

"Certainly, but what are women but grown-up children?"

Further conversation was prevented by the arrival of the speaker, to whom an enthusiastic welcome was accorded.

Mr. X, the cabinet minister, was famed for his eloquence, and soon all his hearers were following his words with eager interest.

"What England needs today—"

"Is Votes for Women," piped a shrill voice from the back of the hall.

The interruption was immediately followed by loud cries of "Turn her out." "Turn her out."

"Let us be just before we are generous and give—"

"Votes to Women."

This time the voice came from the middle of the hall. The stewards hastened there and seized hold of an elderly lady, whom they as hastily released, when they recognized in her the chairman's wife. Once more they were obliged to withdraw.

"Disgraceful!" said a voice in my ear. It was the youth of the Inverness coat.

"Shameful!" I ejaculated.

"What dunderheads the stewards must be not to find out who they are!"

Again Mr. X attempted to make his speech, only to be interrupted again.

So it continued for the space of an hour. Every few moments the squeaking feminine voice repeated its demand, "Votes for Women."

But the mystifying part of the business was that the voice, although apparently the same one, never came twice from exactly the same quarter. The stewards were at their wit's end. They had tracked the fugitive voice to all parts of the room, only to be met with amused or angry assurances that none there had spoken. When the voice came from the platform, from the very table at which the chairman was seated, everyone felt that the climax had been reached.

The chairman, a hot-tempered, explosive little gentleman, sprang to his feet, upsetting a glass of water in his excitement.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he spluttered, "this is scandalous. I have never presided over such a disgraceful meeting, nor been so grossly insulted. Both Mr. X and I feel it is quite impossible to proceed with the business of the evening."

When next I saw Nell she was so sweetly sympathetic, and acquiesced so entirely in my condemnation of the suffragettes that once more I rejoiced in my happy choice of a wife.

Presently I suggested a stroll and she ran away to dress.

In a few minutes the door reopened.

"How quick—"

I stared at Nell in petrified astonishment.

There she stood in the Inverness coat I remembered so well, with her pretty hair covered by a hideous black wig. For a moment there was silence. Then that shrill voice began to resound from every part of the room in turn, with its maddening demand, "Votes for Women."

"Don't I do it well, Bob?" inquired Nell with a saucy smile lighting up her face. "Professor Raglan says I'm one of the finest ventriloquists he has ever heard."

WERE PERSECUTED IN JAPAN

Christians of the Middle Ages Found Dark Days in Land of Mikado.

There were once a million Christians in Japan. And what is still more painful, there were a million Christians there prior to the visit of Commodore Perry's fleet in 1853, which broke the sleep of two centuries and a half. William Frost Bishop, D. D., writes in the Christian Observer. They were there prior to the 250 years during which Japan was tightly closed to the outside world. Francis Xavier himself was in Japan for years, arriving there in 1549—Xavier the mighty. Xavier the earnest and successful. In little over half a century the Christians numbered a million. They were exterminated and left no visible trace. And it will never, never do to say the work was not genuine, that the priests were not noble, and that their disciples were not self-sacrificing and true.

Read how they died; how they met death in executions and battles; how they were mangled and crucified. Nowhere in history have men endured persecutions and encountered death in forms more frightful. In no land have God's people died in the faith with greater courage and firmness.

This century of Christianity in the sunrise kingdom, with its million members, extended from 1550 onward. The country was in a very unsettled state and at length prominent Christians were drawn into treacherous schemes, which meant nothing less than treason. The political form of Xavier's Christianity was undoubtedly a peril to the independence of Japan. Hence his disciples were ordered out of the country, and all who did not leave were slain. Europe was doing much the same with heretics through tortures and inquisitions. Religious liberty in that age was known in no part of the globe.

HOW TO STERILIZE OYSTERS

Method by Which Bivalves Can Be Freed From All Germs of Disease.

The danger of eating oysters taken from polluted sources has been frequently proved by outbreaks of typhoid fever and other intestinal complaints among those who have been unfortunate enough to consume them. It now appears that there is an easy and efficacious method of obviating this danger. At a recent meeting of the French Academie des Sciences M. Henneguy submitted an account of experiments recently carried out by M. Fabre Domergue at the Concarneau laboratory, with the object of discovering some means of preventing the accidents which arise from eating contaminated oysters. As the result of these experiments, M. Henneguy was able to state that oysters taken from beds reeking with sewage and typhoid germs can be rendered absolutely sterile by the simple process of keeping them for 15 days in tanks of filtered water. This treatment, while freeing the bivalves from all germs of disease, has no deteriorating effect upon the oysters themselves. They remain as fat and well flavored as when taken from the parent bed. In view of the simplicity and efficacy of the method, we may expect in a couple of weeks to find the restaurants making a feature of sterilized oysters.

A NEW VEHICLE.

It was when the taxicab chauffeurs in New York went on strike as a mark of their sympathy for the express wagon drivers. A striking chauffeur was standing on a corner gazing with a bilious and malevolent eye at the vehicle of a fellow-chauffeur who had refused to strike.

"That taxicab has its nerve," ventured a friend. He of the bilious eye transfixed the other with an angry glance.

"That ain't no 'taxicab," he growled, "that's a taxicab!"

DOUBTFUL VOCALISM.

"There is only one trouble about a Chinese cook," said the man from the west.

"What is that?"

"You can never tell whether he is singing at his work or whether he has burnt himself and is moaning with pain."

FORGOT TO MENTION THAT

Illustrating Hunter's Readiness to Take up Clue and Follow It to End.

The following up of a report is often as unprofitable as the search for the end of the rainbow, or the childish attempt to scoop the moon up from a roadside puddle. It is, however, a satisfying exercise of natural instincts on the part of born hunters. In "Raiderland" S. R. Crockett gives an instance of this readiness to take up a clue and follow it to the end.

A south country laird, with his man John, was riding to market. The laird and John were passing a hole in the moor, when the laird turned his thumb over his shoulder and said: "John, I saw to tod (fox) gang in there!"

"Did ye, indeed, laird?" cried John, all his hunting blood instantly on fire. "Ride ye your lane to toon; I'll bowk the craitur oot!"

Back went John for the pick and having first, of course, stopped the earth.

The laird rode his way, and all day was foregathering with the cronies at the market town—a business in which his henchman would ably and very willingly have seconded him.

It was the hour of evening, and the laird rode home. He came to a mighty excavation on the hillside. The trench was both long and deep.

Very tired, and somewhat short-grained in temper, John was seated on a mound of earth, vast as the foundation of a fortress. "There's nae fox here, laird!" said John, wiping the honest sweat of endeavor from his brow.

The laird was not put out. He was, indeed, exceedingly pleased with himself.

"Deed, John," he said, "I wad hae been muckle surprised gin there had been a fox in the hole. It's ten year since I saw the tod gang in there!"—Youth's Companion.

THE HOME OF THE WORM

Often Digs Three or Four Feet and in Cold Countries Eight Feet Deep.

Worm's holes are often dug three or four feet deep, and in cold countries, as far as seven or eight feet under the surface.

These holes go straight down or in a slightly oblique direction. At the bottom there is a small, round compartment with perhaps a few small stones or pebbles in it, for the worms do not like to lie close against cold earth.

During hot summer weather or in the cold frost of winter the worms remain at the bottom of their holes curled up singly or in balls of three or four.

The whole length of this narrow hole has a lining of dark mould. Near the top, for a few inches, the lining is made of leaves flattened and pasted all round against the earth. In that softly lined part the worm likes to lie all day in damp or cold weather with his head just concealed beneath the level of the ground or poking up from the surface. Through this habit of lying at the top of their little homes, with their heads stuck out at the door, the worms are easily caught and pulled up by the birds.

WHAT DOG BROUGHT HOME.

Count Seefried, who is a relation of the Austrian emperor, got the biggest scare of his life one day recently when he discovered the head of a young girl lying on his writing table in his castle at Rosenberg, in Hungary. His servants could give no explanation, and declared that no stranger had entered the castle. The police were immediately informed of the matter, and thinking it might be intended as a warning from some secret society the count's residence was scoured for possible murderers. At length the headless body of a girl, who had apparently been run over by a train, was found near a railway embankment. As a retriever belonging to the count had been seen in that neighborhood, it is presumed that its instinct as a sporting dog had induced the animal to bring the head to its master's room.

HIS VIEW OF IT.

She—Do you believe that "science makes the heart grow tender?"

DeBroke—Well, I always ide that way toward my creditors.

PUNK IN THE ART STORE

Boston Shopkeeper Gives Satisfactory Explanation of Why It Is There.

The Eversore Art company, Limited, had often puzzled the clerk, writes "Clerk of the Day" in the Boston Evening Transcript. Its show windows have an impression of scarlet football girls, Paris green photographs made hideous by hand, bad jokes done into worse prints and cheapy-cheap love scenes in cheapy-cheap frames. A million times the clerk has passed that aesthetic inferno, half minded each time to rush in and ask what it thought it was up to. Well, the things we continue almost to do we end by doing. The clerk did. This morning, emboldened by a second cup of coffee, he crossed the abhorred threshold and saluted the abhorred proprietor, to whom he said: "No offense, dear sir, but you disgrace your city. The art in your window is exceedingly punk."

The compliment was not wasted. A mellow grin ensued, such a grin as burglars display when you greet them with appreciative shudders. Seeing that good relations were established, the clerk drew from under his arm a copy of the Connorscar. "Look at this," said he. "Sir, exquisite color prints inside, all for half a dollar. Why don't you frame them, mark the price way down low, and sell them to artists and art students by the thousand?"

Though naturally grateful for the interference in his affairs, the fellow frowned. A look as of fifty horrors overspread his visage. "Artists! Art students! They ain't no folks to do business with. Poor pay, sir! Devilish poor pay! I don't want no art folks around my joint."

Thus is a great mystery explained: Vulgarly doesn't rage in the art shops for the mere fun of the thing. It has a purpose—to scare away "art folks."

ALASKANS ARE HOSPITABLE

Cosmopolitanism Is Necessarily a Characteristic of Cabins in Land of Gold.

A pleasing feature of the trails is the hospitality that is found residing with the pioneers of the little cabins that line the way. The greater number of the claims at least on the Klondike and the Bonanza, have these primitive habitations, and inasmuch as the claims have lengths not exceeding five hundred feet, measured along the creek, they follow one another in rapid succession. Many a pleasant hour have I passed in the welcome shade of log walls, enjoying the good cheer of a bottle of Burgundy or port or the more prosaic wash of English breakfast tea. Cosmopolitanism is necessarily the characteristic of these road settlements, since nearly all quarters of the globe have contributed something to the population. Africa, Australia and New Zealand have their representatives in the field, as well as Italy, France, Austria and Sweden; and they constitute at least as intelligent or intellectual a part of the community as the more numerous sons of the nearer northwest territory. No one has so far attempted to apportion out the population of the Klondike into its national elements, and until a careful count is made it will be a mere hazard that will state the numerical standing of the different peoples; but that the region offers a fine opportunity for the study, in a condensed area and under a variety of forms, of most diverse racial characteristics no one will deny.—From Heilprin's "Alaska and the Klondike."

NO RISK.

"Susannah," asked the preacher when it came her turn to answer the usual questions in such cases, "do you take this man to be your wedded husband, for better or for worse?"

"Jes' as he is, pahson," she interrupted, "jes' as he is. Ef he gits any better Ah'll know de good Lawd's gwine to take 'im; an' ef he gets any wusser, w'y, Ah'll tend to 'im myself."—Youth's Companion.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Apparently the automobile had passed directly over him, yet he picked himself up unscathed.

"To what do you attribute your marvelous escape?" they asked as he stood dusting himself off in the middle of the pavement.

"To the fact," he said, "that my name's MacAdam."

Growth of Large Private Fortunes in the Fatherland is Comparatively Recent But Rapid.

A German income tax statistician gives interesting particulars of the comparatively recent growth of large private fortunes in the fatherland. Heading the list in Frau Bertha Krupp von Bohlen-Halbach, who was before her marriage Germany's wealthiest heiress. She has to pay on $16,750,000. Five years ago she was still richer and contributed to the imperial exchequer on the basis of a fortune of $53,500,000. Next comes Prince Henckel von Donnersmarck, the kaiser's friend and owner of various industrial undertakings who has increased his fortune during the last 15 years from $12,400,000 to $14,250,000. The third is the duke of Ujest, of the Hohenlohe family, a bachelor, who has improved himself in the last decade from $13,500,000 to $37,750,000. The fourth in order of riches is Baron Goldschmidt-Rothschild of Frankfurt, who owns $26,750,000. The greatest capitalist of Berlin is Ernest von Mendelssohn-Bartholdy of the banking firm of that name, who possesses $10,750,000. He, however, comes only seventeenth on the general list. The 18 richest people in Germany do not reside in the capital. The modest town of Kassel has a magnate Karl Henschel, whose wealth amounts to $11,500,000.

HEEDLESS OF TIME'S FLIGHT

Elderly Colored People of the South Rarely Know How Old They Are.

As every southerner knows, elderly colored people rarely know how old they are, and almost invariably assume an age much greater than belongs to them. At an Atlanta family there is employed an old chap named Joshua Bolton who has been with that family and the previous generation for more years than they can remember. In view, therefore, of his advanced age, it was with surprise that his employer received one day an application for a few days off in order that the old fellow might, as he put it, "go up to de ole state of Virginnny" to see his aunt.

"Your aunt must be pretty old," was the employer's comment.

"Yassir," said Joshua, "she's pretty ole now. I reckon she's 'bout a hundred and ten years ole."

"One hundred and ten! But what on earth is she doing up in Virginia?"

"I don't jest know," explained Joshua, "but I understand she's up dere living wif her grandmother."—Harper's Weekly.

LOW INFANT DEATH RATE.

Lady Stout, wife of Sir Robert Stout, chief justice of New Zealand, says that the infant death rate is lower in her country than in any other place in the world except Victoria. According to her statistics 214 babies die before they are one year out of every 1,000 born in Hungary; in Germany, 190; in France, 149; in England and Wales, 174; in Scotland, 125; in New Zealand, 77; in Victoria, 70. Lady Stout also says that before the granting of equal franchise to the women of New Zealand and Victoria the birth rate was very low. For the first few years after the decline continued, then the birth rate took an upward turn, which has continued ever since until now it is higher than that of England and Wales. These are, in Lady Stout's opinion, two strong arguments in favor of equal franchise.

RELICS AT WINDSOR CASTLE.

In the "gold pantry" at Windsor castle is the gold tiger's head taken from Tipu Sahib's throne in 1789. It is life size and the teeth and eyes are of rock crystal. Another relic captured at the same time is the jeweled bird called the uma, shaped like a pigeon, with a peacock tail. The feathers blaze with precious stones and a great emerald hangs from its breast. According to an old Indian legend, whoever owns this bird will rule India.

EXPENSIVE.

"Yes," said the portly passenger with the noisy tie, proudly, "this watch cost me a hundred and fifty dollars."

"Weren't the police able to get your money back?" asked the meek little man in the seat just across the aisle.

JEERER AT WOMAN SILENCED

How an Athletic Girl Stopped an Anti-Suffrage Talk of a Pennsylvania Young Man.

There is a Pennsylvania youth who has been accustomed at all opportunities to sneer at woman's suffrage, remarks the Philadelphia Record. His sisters and girl friends have been forced to sit and fairly gnash their teeth in helpless rage while he jeered and ridiculed the cause. A short time ago one of his sisters had visiting her an acquaintance from out of town. After her arrival the young man began his favorite anti-suffrage line of conversation. The cause had an ardent advocate in the visitor, however, and the discussion waxed warm. "Women are not the equal of men in any activities," asserted the youth. "They are not good at business, athletics or anything that is really worth while. Why, then, should they be allowed to vote?" he argued. It happens that this girl is a tennis player of exceptional ability, and she then and there challenged the youth to a match to prove his assertion. He, being something of a player himself, gladly accepted. The match was duly played. The girl won the first set 6 to 3, the second 6 to 2, while the third resulted in the complete rout of the anti-suffrage cause by a score of 6 to 0. Thereafter, while the athletic young woman remained in the house, the youth never opened his mouth on the subject of suffrage. The guest has departed now and occasionally he reverts to the subject, but without his old conviction, and his sisters can make him take "to the woods" by the mere mention of tennis.

TO INSURE A LONG LIFE

Quit Eating and Drinking, Smoking and Breathe Sterilized Air.

Drink water and get typhoid fever. Drink milk and get tuberculosis. Drink whisky and get jinnjams. Drink soup and get fat. Eat meat and encourage cancer, apoplexy and appendicitis. Eat oysters and absorb typhoid and gastric poison germs. Eat vegetables and give the system Asiatic, thin-blooded weakness. Eat dessert and die with parasites or something else. Smoke cigarettes and die too soon. Drink coffee and fall into insomnia and nervous prostration. Drink tea and get weak heart. Drink wine and so drink gout. Blame it all, if you want to keep well quit eating and drinking, smoking and loving, and before breathing or touching anything see that the air and everything is perfectly sterilized. Some scientific cranks or madmen think every man should so live, while another set of cranks think all modern science is nonsense. There is a scientific moderation in living that almost surely insures long life, no matter what the different kinds of cranks say.—New York Press.

A STRICT CENSOR.

Vienna once possessed the strictest dramatic censor ever known, in the person of Franz Hoegelin, who held that post in the Austrian capital at the beginning of the last century. Hoegelin published a manual for the guidance of censors. "A pair of lovers should never be allowed to appear on the stage alone. They must always be accompanied by a third person of mature years." Marriages out of one's class were also strictly forbidden by Hoegelin on the stage, and he quotes an instance of a play which he refused to pass because the author made the hero, Count Vlademar, marry a gardener's daughter. "Such misalliances have unfortunately been known to occur in real life, but that is no reason why they should be allowed on the stage," he said.—London Chronicle.

ABSENT TREATMENT.

"It seems to me," said young De Borem, "that I have tried every way imaginable to gain your affections, but without any success."

"They say," rejoined the fair maid in the parlor scene, "that 'absence makes the heart grow fonder.' You might try it."

HEARD ON THE TRAIN.

"Mamma, is 'josh' swearin'?"

"No; hush, dear."

"Say, mamma, would it be swearin' if I was to spell it with a 'g'?"

"Tommy, everybody in the car is looking at you! If you don't stop talking I'll spank you."

NEW ORLEANS NAMED AS SITE

House Committee Decides
For It On Exposition
Question.

NO APPROPRIATION.

Government Will Have An Immense Exhibit
There.

Washington, Jan., 22.—New Orleans won the first round of the fight for the location of the Panama exposition today, when the exposition committee of the house, by a vote of 9 to 6, decided in favor of it as the site for the fair to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal in 1915.

After long consideration of the claims of the two cities, the committee voted to report favorably to the Estopinal bill recognizing New Orleans and authorizing the selection of a board of commissioners to make a government exhibit and the like. No appropriation for the pecuniary aid of the New Orleans fair is authorized.

It is understood, however, that the committee will favor an extensive government exhibit to cost approximately $1,000,000.

Five members in minority report will favor San Francisco. The reports will be made Tuesday.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything, I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C. for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure. 'It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c & $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists."

MAY BE CONSOLIDATED

As Result of Methodists in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Jan. 21.—The subcommittee representing three Methodist churches of the country closed their meeting yesterday afternoon after a three days' session. It was said before the members left for their homes that in all probability the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Church South and the Methodist Protestant Church would be united. This will form the largest church body in the country.

The report to be made by the delegates will be delivered to their respective conferences. It will contain a frank statement of the views of each body as the fundamental basis of the federation or consolidation. The time for the report to each all the conferences and then to come back to the subcommittee is three years.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c at all Druggists.

Ends Winter's Troubles.

To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost-bitten toes and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold sores, red and rough skins, prove this. But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Greatest healer of Burns, Boils, Piles, Cuts, Sores, Bruises, Eczema and Sprains. Only 25c at all druggists.

GOLD CORDS

Must Adorn The Hats Of Policemen On Duty.

An order has been issued permitting patrolmen to substitute for helmets a uniform hat of black felt with a gold cord, and a wreath pinned on the front. The men do not like to wear helmets, with one or two exceptions, and the new order was made to give something else a trial. They will not be permitted to be on duty without full uniforms including hats, without obtaining permission of the officer in command, in cases where there are good reasons for performing their duties in citizens' clothes.

Might Be Dead Today.

Garden City, Kas.—In a letter from Mrs. James Hamner, of this city, she says, "I firmly believe that I would not be alive today, if it were not for Cardui. I had been a sufferer from womanly troubles all my life, until I found that great remedy. I feel that I can't praise it to highly." Are you a woman, suffering from some of the troubles to which a woman is peculiarly liable? If so why not try Cardui, the woman's tonic? You can rely on Cardui, it is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and acts gently but surely, without bad after effects. 'Twill help you. Ask your druggist.

Sent to Asylum.

Anna Woodburn was adjudged of unsound mind by a jury in county court and ordered sent to the Western Asylum for treatment.

The best is none too good for the patrons of the Hopkinsville Steam Laundry, and for prices, why for the last 22 years Hopkinsville has had the most reasonable rate of any city, as collars and cuffs have only been 2c each for years, while Nashville, Evansville and Memphis and other towns have been getting all along 24c for collars and cuffs and 12c to 15c for shirts. This is one case without competition that a town has for years had lowest possible rate without any competition to make it so.
